- Born with so many fundamental similarities to earth, how did Venus get to be so radically different: it is not just an academic matter. For all its extremes, Venus is a valuable laboratory for researchers studying the weather and climate of earth. It has no earth's oceans, so the heat transport and other mechanisms are greatly simplified. In addition, the planet Venus takes 243 earth days to turn once on its axis, so incoming heat from the sun is added and distributed at a more leisurely, observable pace.

16. The greatest value in studying Venus should be to _____.

- A. allow us to visit there
- B. understand Earth better
- C. find a new source of energy
- D. promote a new space program

- Shouting slogans, waving flags and dancing to drumbeats, the women had come to the capital from all over Italy to demonstrate for “a job for each of us, a different type of job, and a society without violence.” So far, action to improve women's opportunities in employment has been the province of collective industrial bargaining. “But there is a growing awareness that this is not enough,” says a researcher on female labor at the government funded Institute for the Development of Professional Training for Workers.

17. About 200, 000 women in Rome demonstrated for _____.

- A. more job opportunities
- B. a greater variety of jobs
- C. “equal job, equal pay”
- D. both A and B

- Some people believe that international sport creates goodwill between the nations and that if countries play games together, they will learn to live together. Others say that the opposite is true: that international contests encourage false national pride and lead to misunderstanding and hatred. There is probably some truth in both arguments, but in recent years the Olympic Games have done little to support the view that sports encourage international brotherhood. Not only was there the tragic incident involving the murder of athletes, but the Games were also ruined by lesser incidents caused principally by minor national contests.

18. According to the author, recent Olympic Games have _____.

- A. created goodwill between the nations
- B. bred only false national pride
- C. barely showed any international friendship
- D. led to more and more misunderstanding and hatred

- Is language, like food, a basic human need without which a child at a critical period of life can be starved and damaged? Judging from the drastic experiment of Frederick II in the thirteenth century, it may be. Hoping to discover what language a child would speak if he heard no mother tongue, he told the nurses to keep silent.

19. The purpose of Frederick II’s experiment was _____.

- A. to prove that children are born with the ability to speak
- B. to discover what language a child would speak without hearing any human speech
- C. to find out what role careful nursing would play in teaching a child to speak

D. to prove that a child could be damaged without learning a language
